How often is August when there is a full moon? The answer is: it varies. The moon's orbit around Earth is elliptical, so the distance between them changes over time. This means that the moon's apparent size in the sky also changes. Sometimes it looks like a small dot, and other times it looks like a large, bright disk. The difference is due to the change in distance. The moon is closest to Earth when it is at perigee, and furthest when it is at apogee. The difference in distance is about 10,000 miles. This means that the moon's apparent size can vary by about 10%.
